IMPLANTS

Improving Primary Stability of Implants Using Osseodensification
Drs. Emil Capetta, Adam Goldberg, Howard Drew, Ranjitha Padhiar, and Mariam Khan present cases that were seen and treated at the postgraduate clinic of periodontics at Rutgers School of Dentistry. Treatments used modifications of densification techniques to achieve successful surgical results in rehabilitating patients with preoperative limitations to implant placement. This article is peer-reviewed and available for 2 CE credits.

Allogenic Block Graft Utilized for Pre-Implant Site Preservation
Dr. Brian Jackson demonstrates a staged approach encompassing an allogenic block graft followed by implant placement and prosthetic reconstruction. This technique is useful in horizontal ridge augmentation for dental implant reconstruction.

RESTORATIVE

Complex Implant Treatment and Restorative Planning to Achieve the Patient’s Asthetic Goals
Dr. Gregori M. Kurtzman looks at a patient with a blend of clinical issues and conditions. In this circumstance, the choice of lab, materials, and cementation enables a consistent and predictable workflow that mitigates stress for the practitioner, team, and patient.

Leveraging the Inside-Outside Bleaching Technique
Dr. Melissa Seibert details a method of bleaching an endodontically treated tooth with the “inside-outside” technique. She explains why the combination is sometimes necessary to achieve a predictable result.

LASERS

The Power of a Smile: All-Tissue Dental Laser Opens the Door to Cosmetic Procedures
Dr. Jeff Rodhe looks at the use of CO<sub>2</sub> laser procedures, such as osseous crown lengthening, gingival recontouring, and more, to improve aesthetic outcomes.
